Eligibility:

Notes: The Clinics at Maine Law, established in 1970 as the Cumberland Legal Aid Clinic, is a program of the University o Maine School of Law, and is a small legal services provider in which clients are represented by "student attorneys' Maine Law students are specially licensed by the state and federal courts to provide legal services to low-income clients. The student attorneys practice under the supervision of fully-licensed attorney faculty members.

The Clinic represents low-income individuals with legal cases in Southern Maine courts (Cumberland, York, Sagadahoc, and Androscoggin counties) for most kinds of civil, criminal, juvenile, and family law matters. The Clin represents clients at both the trial and appellate levels. The Clinic asks clients to pay a $10 administrative fee. In some cases, clients may be asked to pay court and other significant costs. The Clinic does not otherwise charge fo its services.

Individuals qualify for our services when:
Their household gross income falls within our financial guidelines;
The court is within our geographic service area; and
We have openings for new clients.
Because our resources are very limited, the Clinic cannot accept every case that meets our eligibility requirements Therefore, we determine whether to accept a case based upon other factors, such as the availability of assistance from other legal services providers, the client's need for legal representation in the matter, the type of legal issue presented, and the potential learning experience for the students.

If you are seeking legal help from the Clinic, you can call us between 8:00 am and 4:00 pm, Monday through Frid , to see if we have any current openings:
207.780.4370 (Greater Portland area)
877.780.2522 (toll free, outside of Greater Portland area)
Other Important Information about the Clinic
We cannot give legal advice or information over the phone.
We do not provide services on a "walk-in" basis.
We do not maintain a waiting list of potential clients.

Serves: Cumberland, York, Sagadahoc, and Androscoggin Counties.

Eligibility:

Notes: The ACLU of Maine is the state's guardian of liberty. We are active in the courts, the legislature and the public sphere to defend the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and to extend their promises to all Mainers. Our priority issues include criminal legal reform, reproductive freedom, racial justice, immigrants' rights, LGBTQ rights, women's rights, voting rights, freedom of expression, freedom of speech and religion, and privacy. We're also the Maine affiliate of the nationwide ACLU.

The legal department primarily works on criminal law reform; immigration; freedom of speech and the press; privacy; voting rights; police misconduct; discrimination based on race, national origin, sex, sexual orientation or gender identity, religion, or disability; and access to government documents and officials. Almost all of our cases are brought against governments and government employees, rather than private individuals or companies. We generally do not represent individuals unless an individual case relates to a broader systemic civil rights issue or creates an opportunity for law reform on an issue that is an ACLU of Maine priority. We do our best, however, to provide suggestions of other resources you may want to contact.

We review all written requests for assistance we receive, but because of the high volume of requests, we won't be able to let you know if we're unable to help. We will contact you only if we believe we can provide assistance or if we need additional information. Please do not expect a response because we cannot guarantee one. We are unable to take most cases, even those concerning real injustices. If your complaint is not pursued by our office, it does not mean it is without merit. We do not currently accept requests for legal assistance by phone, email, or in-person. Please complete the online form at https://action.aclu.org/legal-intake/me-legal-intake
